

Wednesday Challenge Form

Group Members: Tyler's Team

Problem Statement: Throw a plastic tube to a person next to you and continue to complete the different tasks that must be done as a team. Everyone must catch the tube. If it drops, it starts all over from the beginning.

Approach: The class was divided into two teams like how we did the marble challenge last time. This time, we have to work as a team to throw a long plastic tube to a person next to you in a circle. In the beginning, I dropped the tube few times and others were also not used to the throwing and catching. We seem to go much slower than the other team but we started to find a way to catch it much easier than how it used to be. We had a counter in our team who led us when we should all start throwing to the next person. We must throw and catch while sitting, standing, and to a person next next to you. To pass to the third person, half of the people turned around to make it easier to tell who to pass to. We finished earlier than the other team and won the challenge.

Solution: Our team won the challenge this week using teamwork and having a leader who led us to the goal that we wanted to complete. Teamwork was the key to this challenge and we did not blame on anyone when a person made a mistake.

Lessons Learned: If I would do this challenge again, I would use the same strategy that we used to win this challenge. Mistakes can be made but blaming others does not help when you are in a team,
